

Communicate Compliance Reporting

At the end of this episode, I will be able to:

1. Describe the importance of compliance reporting and communication.

Learner Objective: Describe the importance of compliance reporting and communication

Description: In this episode, the learner will explore the importance of communicating the results of compliance reports to the appropriate audiences.

- Compliance report is a form of documented evidence or proof detailing a company's adherence to a regulation, or standard or guideline.
 - Communicating the importance to the industry in which an organization operates (know the audience). Commonly any company with information systems storing data.
 - Technologies moves fast, regulations change
 - Can determine whether an organization faces penalties
 - o Examples
 - ♠ ISO 27001 - requirements for establishing, implementing, maintaining and continually improving information security management systems
 - ♠ HIPPA - health care providers, health insurance companies
 - ♠ PCI-DSS - any company involved in payment card transactions
 - ♠ GDPR - any company that processes information on EU-based residents (regardless of company location)
 - ♠ SOC 2 - companies that store, process and maintain customer/client information (Examples: Cloud and SaaS providers)
 - Examples:
 - o Provide secure communications to appropriate stake holders
 - o Examine and report on compliance requirements and scope
 - o Examine and report on controls providing adherence to requirements
 - o Compliance non-compliance (or violation) awareness, and proposed controls
 - o Monitoring
 - o Validation of implemented controls
-

Additional Resources: + If applicable